that is not strictly consistent with the highest sense of konor or with the most honorable conduct. Blaine wrote to Pisher asking him for a plosed a draft to indicate about what kind of a requisited, showing that the conduct of the latter was in the bighest degree honorable and straightiflorward" and giving permission to use the letter in any way that might be of service in mosting the slanders that had been set on foce. Blaine's own letter to Fisher was marked "confidential," and he was very desirous that 't should be knot so, became it was written avowedly in view of his candidacy for the presidential nomination in 1876, and publication of the letter at that time would have increased and of the service and of course the great the view of the course the great plate and service in his continued to transfer would reach me, but at last they resorted to a new pants of the presidential nomination in 1876, and publication of the letter at that time would have increased with the presidential nomination in 1876, and publication of the letter at that time would have increased with the presidential nomination in 1876, and publication of the letter at that time would have increased and the presidential nomination in 1876, and publication of the letter at that time would have increased the presidential nomination in 1876, and publication of the letter at that time would have increased the presidential nomination in 1876, and publication of the letter at that time would have increased the presidential nomination in 1876, and publication of the letter at the would have increased and the properties of the presidential nomination in 1876, and publication of the letter at the would have increased to the presidential nomination in 1876, and publication of the letter at the would have increased to the presidential nomination in 1876, and publication of the letter at the would have increased to the properties of the presidential nomination in 1876, and publication of the letter at the would have increased to the properties of the presidential nomination in 1876, and publication of the letter at the properties of the propertie

the most virulent assidiant point to a single case the fact amount of the cush with the case of the presence of the case and the proper pression upon which to have a charge against Blaine. Criticism may be challenged and defied.

Will it not strike most American criticism is something novel, to say the least, that one of the rounders and yet the attempt to attack Blaine upon the record of these documents; and yet the attempt that has been male is not inconsistent with the general conduct of the Phrisces. These critics protend to a sparious sense of bonor, which critic nowhere but in the imaginations of men who are thomselves corrupt. In these pretentions they harbor can be found in any form of plain dishonesty. The New York Traces ages: "If anything short of actual borse stealing will convinue ardent Blaine topublicance that their candidate is a man without honor ard quame and a secondrel binnel in instigation of secondary will have called the state of April 16, to Fisher, with its enclosure, will have that effect." And this will be the judgment of the country because there is in the public mind a love of truth, deconcy and farrness, which always manifests itself most strongly when the malignity of micropresentation is doing its worst. Lincoln was maligned. Grant was maligned. Grant was maligned. Or far the second of the country of micropresentation is doing its worst. Lincoln

Anti-war and antiadministration democrats placed in the field DeWitt Clinton, of New York. The federalists, hungry for power, endersed the nomina-tion of their life-long opponent, DeWitt Clinton. They carried New York, but lost Pennsylvania, and so lost the election, Madison and Eibridge Gerry of Mussachusetts being elected president and vice-president respectively. In Van Baren was Accied to the presidency in 1836, the only New York man that ever was elected to that office, and he was elected because the imperious Jackson willed it. Mr. George Topp, proprieter of the Law Pulletin, said he though the Germans who voted for Gerfield would about all vote the republicant ucket at the October election. The German wards are the Third, Eleventh, Twelith and Thirreenth The Third gave though 10 majority last fall. Mr. Topp thoughs it would give a majority of 400 to, the republicant tellest this fall, which would be a change of 500. In the Eleventh ward he expects to see last years republican majority of 400 increased to 1000, in the Twelith and Thirteenth wards an increase of 600 and 300 respectively in the rendship.
